

What are Child Development Permits?

These permits authorize you to teach or supervise in a child development program. Child Development Permits are issued by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC) and allow an individual to secure employment in an educational program for children funded with federal, state, county or local money. This includes school districts, Head Start, state preschool, before and after school care, and campus laboratory centers.

Want a CD Permit? You have to apply for them!

In order to get a Child Development Permit, you must apply for it through any of the two websites below. There are application fees, and the processing timeline is about 3-6 months.

Fees:

- Application Fee: $100.00
- Live Scan/Fingerprints Fee (First-Time Applicant): Costs vary depending on the company you use.

Websites:

• Child Development Training Consortium (CDTC)

- The CDTC has a stipend program that can help pay for the permit application fee for eligible applicants as long as there is funding. Once funding runs out, you will need to apply through the Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC) website.
- Additionally, The CDTC can potentially help pay for up to half of your live scan/fingerprints cost!
- To see if you qualify for the stipend, you will also need to complete the stipend application.
